

Peaches ... Why Colorado

Colorado Peaches are grown in the perfect climate. The hot days are contrasted with cool nights which brings out the maximum sweetness in a peach. We have found through the years that the Colorado peaches simply taste the best...

Why "Mountain Gold"

We have found that Talbott's "Mountain Gold" Colorado peaches have consistently had the best quality of all of the Colorado peaches. The difference is in how the peaches are handled during the picking, grading, packing and shipping process. Talbott's has very stringent quality and grading standards which produces the best quality boxes of peaches on a consistent basis.

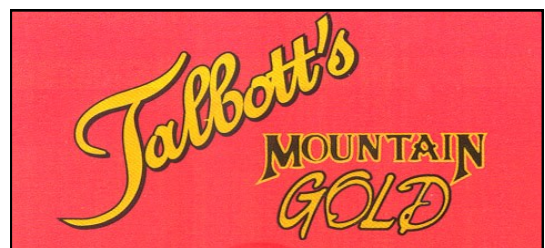

Peaches ... Why BoB's

Just as the peaches need the proper handling during the growing and packing process, they also need to be handled properly at the store to ensure that they will "Finish" properly to be sweet and juicy, (not dry and mushy) We take extra care to monitor every box closely from the time we receive it until you take it home!

In Summary

Colorado Peaches = The Best Growing Area
Talbot's "Mountain Gold" = The Best Grower and Packer
BoB's Produce Ranch = The Best Handling and Ripening

The key to ripening peaches and nectarines is the touch, not color. When the skin is slightly soft, then they are ready to eat. To ripen, place them in a lightly closed paper bag and store at room temperature.
